Khair-ud-Din Masjid:

Most famous historical place in Punjab, Khair-ud-Din Masjid was established by Mohammed Khairuddin in 1876 CE. The mosque is popular for its spectacular architecture. This is precisely the place where Tootie-e-Hind, Shah Attaullah Bukhari had announced the call for waging war to loot the British rulers.

Timing: 6 am to 8 pm

Gurudwara Mata Kaulan:

As you enter Golden Temple, you will see Gurudwara Mata Kaulan on the west side of the temple. The gurudwara was named after a Muslim woman, Bibi Kaulan, who was a devotee of Guru Har Gobind. Her kirtans were admired by many and till date remembered by the older members of the Sikh community. The sarovar that you will see next to Gurudwara Mata Kaulan is called Kaulsar Sahib or Sarovar and is one of the five holy tanks in the city.

Timing: 6 am to 11 pm

Golden Temple:

Golden Temple or Sri Harmandir Sahib is the holiest place for the Sikh community. The Golden Temple witnesses millions of tourists and devotees all round the year. The temple was constructed in the 16th century and ever since then it is surrounded by a beautiful lake. The holy texts of the community were introduced in this temple itself. The upper floor of the temple was actually made of pure gold. The best time to travel to this temple is during the winters.
